

HUMILITY

PUTTING OTHERS FIRST
BY GIVING UP
WHAT YOU THINK YOU DESERVE.

READ ROMANS 12:16

DAY 1

Do you ever have trouble admitting when you're wrong? It's so hard, isn't it? Admitting you're wrong is a big part of showing humility. It means choosing to think about your friendship and how it's WAY more important than being right. Agreeing with one another doesn't mean that you never ever say what's on your mind, but it does mean that you think about how to protect the relationship and stay friends even when you might disagree.

Think about a time this past week when you had a disagreement with a friend. What part did you play in the argument? Remember: you can put others first by letting go of what you want. Do you need to apologize to that friend and make things right? Ask God to help you "agree with one another" the next time you see that friend and work hard to make things right.

THANK God for the person who came to mind and ask Him to help you apologize and show humility.

READ 1 CORINTHIANS 13:4-5

DAY 2

These verses are ALL about love! Humility and love go hand-in-hand. Because when you love and care about someone, you want to treat them with kindness and put them first. Humility means that you don't just look out for yourself. Humility means that you treat others the way you want to be treated and choose to love, no matter what.

Unscramble the words in the blanks below. Then cross out the word love and write the word HUMILITY instead.

LOVE is _____.
T I E P N A T

LOVE is _____.
D K I N

LOVE does not _____.
G R B A

LOVE is not _____.
R O U P D

Love does not _____ other people.
R O N H O D S I

Love does not look out for it's _____.
N W O S T E R I T N E S

Love does not easily become _____.
N A G R Y

Love does not keep track of other people's _____.
S N W O R G

ASK God to help you show love and humility to others this week.

DAY 3

When you do something cool—like score a goal or reach the next level in a video game or complete a 1,000 piece LEGO® creation—what are you hoping for? Maybe you want pat on the back or a “great job” or a high five or a big parade with cheers and praise. What happens when you don’t get that recognition? Do you get angry and pout? Do you brag about your latest accomplishment?

It’s awesome when other people recognize your hard work. It’s not so awesome when you’re the one doing the bragging. This verse reminds us to let the praise come from someone else. And if no one notices, if no one ever sees exactly what you’ve done, remember—GOD does! He sees every single victory—big or small—and He is your biggest fan.

See those lips below? Write the words of this verse inside the lip outline to remind you to choose humility and let others praise you this week.

LISTEN to others and let them say “Good Job!” instead of bragging about your own accomplishments this week.

READ MATTHEW 5:42

DAY 4

This verse is a hard one to follow. Give to someone that asks . . . always? But what if you just received that “something” for your birthday? Or what if you don’t want to stop playing with something and let someone else have a turn? Just because something isn’t easy or fun doesn’t mean you can’t do it. And when it comes to sharing, a BIG key is remembering how you would want others to treat you.

So we have a big humility challenge for you. For the next 24 hours, when there is an opportunity to share, just do it. When someone needs a red crayon to finish his picture, share yours. If a friend wants to buy ice cream and asks to borrow from your extra lunch money, give it. If your little brother REALLY wants to play with the LEGO® set with you, let him. For 24 hours, choose to give when someone asks you for something. And when the 24 hours are up, talk to a grown up about what happened and how this humility challenge made you feel.

KNOW that putting others first means sharing what you have.
